Had Rough Road

Rowe who won [illegible] games for the Tigers a year ago beating the Yankees five straight times has had all kinds of trouble getting started this campaign. He had won only one game in a relief role and lost three pitching only one complete game up until the Yankees came to town.

Against his pet victims however Rowe was invincible. Red Rolfe beat out a bunt in the sixth and got to third on Lou Gehrig's single but Tony Lazzeri hit into a double play to spoil the only chance the Yankees had to score.

In the day's only other American league game Wes Ferrell held the St Louis Browns to five hits and walloped a home run in the [illegible] to account for the Boston Red Sox 2-1 triumph.

A full schedule in the National league saw the four western clubs now invading the East score a clean sweep. Leo Durocher's tenth inning home run broke up a great pitching duel at New York between Carl Hubbell of the Giants and Bill Walker of the St Louis Cardinals and gave the Cards a 3-2 victory.

Walker allowed only six hits and might have had a shut out had he been able to take care of Joe Moore who clouted two home runs to keep the Giants in the game.

Blanton Gets Fifth

The seven hit pitching of young Bill Lee plus a brilliant defense carried the Chicago Cubs to a 4-2 triumph over the Brooklyn Dodgers who found their second place lead over the Cubs cut to four percentage points.

Cy Blanton stopped the Phillies with four hits for his fifth victory in six starts as the Pittsburgh Pirates punched out a 10-1 victory. Si Johnson held the Boston Braves to five hits and Cincinnati won 3-1.

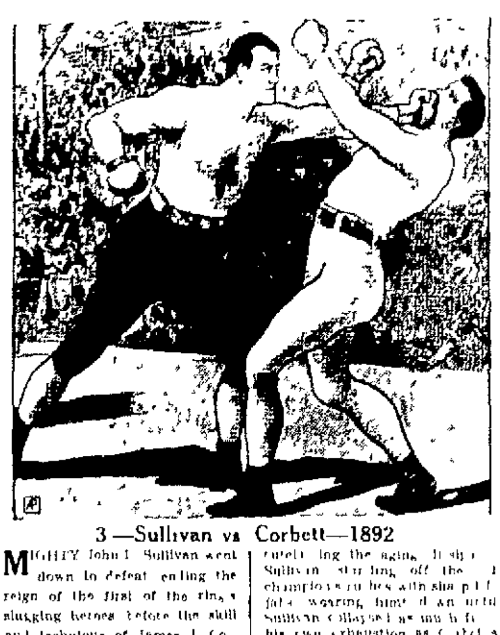
SULLIVAN TO BAER

A Pictorial History of the Heavyweights



3—Sullivan vs Corbett—1892

MIGHTY John L Sullivan went down to defeat ending the reign of the first of the ring's slugging heroes before the skill and technique of James J Corbett first exponent of scientific boxing in 21 rounds Sept 7 1892 at New Orleans. The rise of Corbett a San Francisco bank clerk marked the end of the bare knuckle days and the beginning of gloved fisticuffs of today. (Corbett's the black trunk fighter.)

A despised challenger Corbett electrified the boxing world by outclassing the aging [illegible] Sullivan [illegible] off the [illegible] champion's rushes with sharp left jabs wearing him down until Sullivan collapsed as much from his own exhaustion as Corbett's punches in the 21st round.

The battle climaxed [illegible] the night fighting festival in New Orleans. On successive nights before Corbett won his world championship Jack McAuliffe great lightweight ruler knocked out Billy Meyer the Streator Cyclone in 15 rounds and Jack Skelly flattened George Dixon the Little Chocolate in eight.

108 Qualify for U.S. Open Golf Tourney Next Month

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK May 14 — There was new evidence today that the Oakmont Country club course will be one large headache for competitors in the National Open Golf championship starting June 6.

Simultaneously with 23 other districts the Pittsburgh sectional qualifying round for the Open was played over Oakmont yesterday and so tough was the course that nobody could break 150 for the 36 hole medal play test and a 73 was the best individual round of the day. The last qualifier in that section Bob Graham of Pittsburgh got in with rounds of 80-82 — 162.

Ray Mangrum of Los Angeles the leader at Pittsburgh produced rounds of 73-77 for 150 but another well known shot maker Jimmie Thompson of Long Beach Calif used up 159 strokes.

All told the sectional rounds on 24 courses produced 108 qualifiers for the Open—88 professionals and 20 amateurs. The Chicago district test postponed a week because of torrential rains will qualify 11 more next Monday. With 40 players exempt from the preliminary trials the total field at Oakmont thus will be 16[illegible].

Although most of the favorites came through in fine style there were some leaders who failed to make the grade yesterday.

The former national amateur champions Max Marston at Philadelphia and S. Davidson Herron at Pittsburgh were among those eliminated as were the Big Ten stars Johnny Fischer at Cincinnati and Chuck Kocsis at Detroit and the two-time Canadian amateur champion Scotty Campbell at Seattle. Jack Munger was eliminated at Greensboro.

The New York district took its toll of such professionals as Bill Melhorn Clarence Clark Willie Klein Johnny Kinder and Joe Ezar. Among the successful bidders however were four former open champions—Willie MacFarlane and Johnny Farrell at New York Walter Hagen at Detroit and the Omaha amateur Johnny Goodman in his home town district.

Other prominent qualifiers included Craig Wood Vic Ghezzi Walter Kozak and the former midwestern amateur star Rudy Knepper at New York Charles Yates intercollegiate champion at Atlanta Al Watrous at Detroit the Turnesa brothers at Boston Lex Coleman at Los Angeles Ted Luther [illegible] at Seattle Maurice McCarthy former Walker Cup player at Cleveland Tony Manero at Greensboro Henry Picard [illegible] Dudley Felix Serafin and Gene Kunes at Philadelphia Willie Goggin at San Francisco and Harold McSpaden at Kansas City. Lex [illegible] scoring [illegible] for the qualifying rounds [illegible] Ralph [illegible] who [illegible] for [illegible] at Baltimore.

Fischer's poor showing was in the grade in the National Open qualifier left them astounded today.

The poor showing of the former Walker Cup player almost overshadowed the sensational shooting of Bill Roach young Cincinnati professional who covered the 36 holes in 138 two below par to head a list of five qualifiers in the Cincinnati district.

Fischer shot 153 to put him in a four way tie for eighth place. It was the first time in five years that the record medalist of the national amateur tournament and former national intercollegiate champion has failed to qualify for the National Open.

"I really was not hitting the ball well today—maybe I will next time" Fischer commented. Friends however said he had been bothered by a recurrence of an old stye in July and was tired after the morning round yesterday.

While Roach was lowering the Camargo County club's competitive course record by one stroke Ed Kerby of Akron shot 145 to head a list of eight qualifiers in the Cleveland district. Phil Perkins Al Espinosa and Bill Burke were exempted from qualifying competition in Cleveland.

The qualifiers in the Cincinnati district: Bill Roach 68-70—138 Bill Kaiser Louisville Ky 71-74—145 Robert Strauss Cincinnati [illegible]—14[illegible] Earl Stokes Jr Louisville 71-77—148 Oscar Willowell Dayton 73-76—149.

The qualifiers in Cleveland: Ed Kerby Akron 7[illegible]—145 J. W. Kenney Toledo [illegible]—149 Lloyd Gullickson Cleveland 7[illegible]-71—149 M. J. Misfortune Hits Panther As Craig Wins Mat Event

Fall on Head Ends Colorful Match Britt Uses Famous Hold to Down McCarthy

Misfortune which [illegible] the Black Panther [illegible] feats in a [illegible] [illegible] wrestler again last night [illegible] of a brilliant [illegible]

Knocked dizzy [illegible] the bounces Craig managed to grab his [illegible] [illegible] the ropes as the Panther [illegible] him on his fifth [illegible] [illegible] Panther [illegible] across the ring and landed [illegible] head. Craig came roaring [illegible] him and placed him with a [illegible] press.

Each [illegible] exhausted [illegible] few minutes rest was needed before either [illegible] The Black Panther had [illegible] in his [illegible] slipped out of [illegible] the fall and Craig [illegible] ring, that slipped it back before the Algerian came back fully [illegible]

Each fall lasted 11 minutes and provided a small crowd with a colorful exhibition of mat prowess. The Black Panther lost a challenge match with Buck Weaver Ohio middleweight champion two months ago when he had the bad luck of flying through the ropes to the floor.

Wrestling fans saw Al Britt's famous wing lock at its best and a very mad Irishman as Britt defeated Irish Pat McCarthy of Dublin two out of three falls. The Kansas mat man took the first fall after 15 minutes with the terrific hold his famous dad taught him.

Pat Gets Rough

McCarthy evened the match in a 10 minute second fall with a bar lock and body press coming after a series of powerful elbow blows. Both men opened with hefty blows in the last fall. Britt bounced McCarthy off the ropes and clamped on his wing lock to take the match after 12 minutes of work in the last fall.

Britt was just a bit too heavy and too strong for the Irishman to handle. The Kansan was just too slippery for Pat and that started raising the Irishman's dander. After losing the first fall Pat saw red did his famous jumping act and sent Britt groggy with powerful elbow punches to the solar plexus.

In the third fall Britt paid off in the same coin and both traded punches. Several good blows sent each wrestler spinning across the ring. Soon after the start of the tops by McCarthy the crowd went over to the side of the newcomer giving Britt a big hand as he finished the match.

New Yorker Wins

George Craig got a chance to use his well known front face lift and hip lock in taking the second fall. The Panther took the first with slams off the rope and a body press. Britt was too smart to allow McCarthy to use this weapon in their match keeping down on his knees when in trouble. The Panther came out of a bad arm lock in the third fall to punish

Cardinal Dugout Gives No Signs of Club Slump

Ford Frick Greeted With Jokes as St Louis Lands at Polo Grounds

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK May 14 — You never would guess from visiting with those St Louis Cardinals down in the dugout that the world champions are running a weak fourth in the National League.

"It's too early to say anything yet" ventured Manager Frankie Frisch cautiously "but we better not get too far back that's a cinch."

From the way the rest of those Cardinals harbor and fool you'd think they were still playing the Tigers in a World Series.

"This club never gets off to an early start" suggested one veteran "and no one has guessed the reason yet. They're so busy fooling around the first couple of months experimenting with guys from Rochester and Houston and the rest of the farm places that it isn't a major league club at all until mid season."

It being the Cardinals first visit of the season to the Polo grounds the dugout was honored by a visit from the league president Ford C. Frick. He was met by a concentrated blast on the subject of National League umpire.

It seems that Bill Stewart umpiring at Philadelphia Saturday refused to allow Burgess Whitehead to take first as a hit batsman although the ball broke one of his fingers in three places. The argument revolved about Stewart's expectorating on the wound to heal it and then tapping $25 fines to Leo Durocher and Mike Gonzales for protesting.

"Please Mr President" begged Durocher in mock humility "won't you send that $25 back to me for Christmas."

Frick didn't stay as long as when he was a newspaperman. He left offering to place on display the waivers received from National League clubs on Pat Malone if there's still any belief that the Cards' right-hander was waived out of the league so the Yankees could buy him and the Boston Braves could get Babe Ruth.

Star Injured in Crash Has Playing Days Cut Short

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK May 14—Vincent Richards tennis playing days are over.

The former Davis cup player a professional since 1926 suffered injuries in an automobile crash last week that spell the end of tournament competition for him.

Still in a hospital at Brownsville Richards philosophically accepted the situation.

"The ulna bone is smashed" he said pointing to his bandaged right arm. "There was a triple fracture above the wrist and there can never be any rotating motion in the wrist again.

"As a matter of fact I was thinking about cutting down on my tennis. It was taking too much time from my business which is too important to be neglected. It has been fun and I have no regrets."

Richards 32 has been a top flight performer in American tennis amateur or professional for nearly 20 years. At 15 he won the national doubles championship with Big Bill Tilden.

Let The Infielders Work Is Motto of Whitehead

By The Associated Press

Chicago [illegible] get drawling [illegible] a temperament [illegible] providing part of the answer [illegible] winning ways of the [illegible] Chicago White Sox.

[illegible] popped the name of John Whitehead [illegible] among [illegible] [illegible] and the Sox have [illegible] these days [illegible] stay.

John Whitehead

A husky young giant Whitehead has been unperturbed by major league opposition even when the going was tough and putouts scarce.

Scornful of relief pitchers he worked every minute in all his games allowing a hit here and there getting an occasional strike out and watching opposing batters squib harmless little grounders to his infield.

Let 'Im Hit It

The assist column jumps by leaps and bounds when Whitehead is on the mound because he isn't much interested in boosting his own strikeout average. He'd rather let the batter roll an easy pickup to the shortstop than waste a lot of effort getting strikes.

A sidearm sinker is his chief stock in trade which he mixes with a good fast ball and an assortment of curves. In 36 consecutive innings he allowed only 22 hits and 10 runs. During the same period he got only seven strikeouts but the Sox meanwhile rolled up an astounding number of assists.

Whitehead came to the Sox from the Dallas club of the Texas league where he won 19 games and lost 10 in 1934 despite a month's absence because of a broken finger.

Reunion In Chicago

Two years ago he caught the eye of Giant scouts who failed to draft him because of the rule requiring three years in a Class A minor circuit. The Sox paid approximately $1[illegible]00 for the youngster.

Coming to the Chicago club was something of a reunion for Whitehead who teamed up with two former teammates Zeke Bonura and Ray Radcliffe.

It also is giving him the opportunity of encountering one of his favorite opponents Schoolboy Rowe of the Detroit Tigers who clashed with Whitehead frequently while both were in the Texas league.

Whitehead is 25 [illegible] married and the father of two children a boy and girl.

ADOPTS STUDY COURSE CHANGE

City Board of Education Approves Revision of Social Science Curriculum

Changes in the methods of teaching and textbook material used in courses known as the social sciences will be instituted in the city schools next fall with a gradual revision of the whole curriculum to follow over a period of time. These changes were adopted by the city board of education last night at a meeting in the office of Superintendent C. A. Hudson.

The studies of history, geography, civics and citizenship are known as the social sciences. It is planned to adopt what is commonly known as a fused course in these studies for grades seven, eight and nine. The program could not be instituted in its entirety next year and it is proposed to institute it in the seventh grade classes and possibly in the eighth grade during the second semester.

The following year both seventh and eighth grade pupils would engage in the study of the new material with the possibility of certain elective groups in the ninth grade using one book of the prescribed series.

One Text Available

The only text book material available to carry out the fused program is written by Dr. Rugg of Columbia university. The author has written six books to cover the field in the three grades of the junior high school. They are as follows: seventh grade—An Introduction to American Civilization and Changing Civilizations in the Modern World; eighth grade—A History of the American Civilization and A History of American Government and Culture; ninth grade—Introduction to Problems of American Culture and Changing Governments and Changing Cultures.

A pupil's workbook of directed study also is prepared to accompany each of the books. The pupils would be asked to supply work books only, the board of education supplying the set of the reading books for classroom use.

The fused course of study was recommended by a committee appointed more than a year ago to work on the subject of social studies for junior high schools. Members of the committee are J. E. Frew, Eugene Auld, A. I. Allen, Miss Clover Mae Klingel, Miss Jeanette Powers, Miss Opal Donithen and Miss Philomena Gregg, faculty members in the city junior high schools.

"After careful investigation and study of the work of this committee as well as investigations in other school systems where the Rugg material is now in use, I believe that it will be a decided advantage to give the children of this school system an opportunity to study this live and fresh material which Dr. Rugg has assembled in such a masterly fashion," Superintendent Hudson said in recommending acceptance of the change to the board of education.

Closing Date Set

Other business taken up at the board meeting last night included the definite setting of the closing school date for June 7.

Schools will be closed Thursday, May 30, for Memorial day. Mr. Hudson submitted a prepared report showing progress being made in the current school FERA projects. It was decided to reduce the janitorial staff for the summer months using only those who will be needed for special work. Action on the purchase of coal for next year was deferred until a future meeting.

VIOLATIONS FLAGRANT

KENTON, May 14—State highway patrolmen in their second spring checkup of lighting, brake and horn defects reported traffic violations as flagrant as on their first inspection. KENTON CITY HALL TO BE TORN DOWN

Special to The Star

KENTON, May 14—Work of razing Kenton's fire and water department and city hall building will start within two weeks, Mayor W. F. Bopp said today after receiving official notice from Frank Henry, state fire marshal, and the department of industrial relations ordering that it be torn down. The notices declared the building was a fire trap and unsafe because of bulging walls and cracks that in some places extended from roof to foundation. Work was delayed awaiting final adjustment on insurance contracts held by the city.

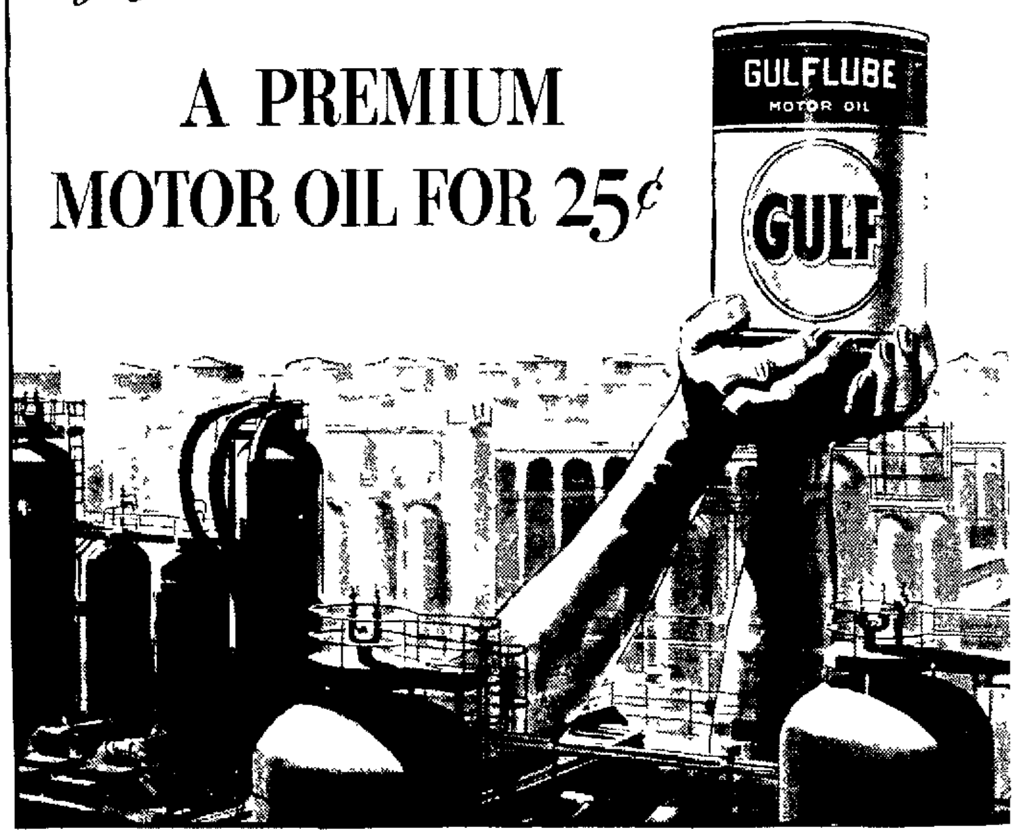
Gulf's new Multi-sol process now brings you

A PREMIUM MOTOR OIL FOR 25¢



THE NEW GULF-LUBE

Again Gulf offers you a saving . . . Now you can get a premium oil at a popular price!

HAVE YOU ever wished for a premium motor oil—without a premium price?

Then—listen to this . . .

There is now a premium oil—with full premium oil qualities—that sells for only 25c a quart. It is the new Gulf-lube.

For many months, Gulf technologists have focussed their efforts on a better method of refining motor oil.

Out of their efforts has come a giant new Gulf refinery operating upon a new refining principle—the Multi-sol process.

And from this new process and new refinery comes the new Gulf lube!

No other 25¢ motor oil gives you all these quality points!

1. It is Multi-sol processed.
2. Its already high mileage has been stepped up 20% to 25%.
3. Highly resistant to oxidation—non sludging . . . extra long life.
4. It has a high viscosity index—thins out less under heat . . . easy starting year-round. Thoroughly de-waxed.
5. Forms far less carbon.
6. High film strength—a pure mineral oil that will not corrode new alloy bearings.

How the Multi-sol process works

In this history making process, solvents of two opposite actions are used.

One action dissolves out the impurities and settles them to the bottom of the extraction tanks. The other action selects the desirable parts of the oil and floats them to the top. This selected oil is then "skimmed off," thoroughly de-waxed and filtered—the finest motor oil 25c ever bought!

THIS BOTTLE of milk shows what the Multi-sol process does for Gulf lube. It separates the "cream" from the "milk." Selective solvents settle the impurities in the oil to the bottom, and float the desirable parts to the top. This "cream" is then skimmed off. Gulf lube is the only 25c oil made by this process.

Try just one filling!

Try this extraordinary new oil. Fill up, replace with the new Gulf lube—and you'll notice a difference before you drive your first hundred miles!

You'll add less oil between drains—for Gulf lube's already high mileage has been stepped up 20% to 25%! You'll get less carbon, less sludge—and far better motor protection.

You can get the new Gulf lube at all Gulf dealers—at only 25c a quart.

DOCTOR TOLD HER HOW TO LOSE 17 POUNDS OF FAT

Gossipers Proved

Mrs. Robert Hickey of Roseville, Calif., writes: "My doctor prescribed Kruschen Salts for me—he said they wouldn't hurt me in the least. I've lost 17 lbs. in 6 weeks. Kruschen is worth its weight in gold."

Mrs. Hickey paid no attention to gossipers who said there was no safe way to reduce—envious women who don't like to see others youthfully slim. She wisely followed her doctor's advice. Why don't YOU?

Get a jar of Kruschen today (lasts 4 weeks and costs but a trifle) and if you don't lose 12 lbs. and feel years younger and healthier—money back. Simply take half teaspoonful in cup of hot water every morning (tastes fine with juice of half lemon added).—Adv.

war.

German [illegible] what the British regard [illegible] [illegible] fear at distrust here [illegible] [illegible] a vast [illegible] powers.

Peace Chief Aim In England

No nation wants war less than Britain, for the trade [illegible] life of the entire British [illegible] depends on the continuance of peace.

Peace is the principal aim of the British foreign policy [illegible] Minister MacDonald [illegible] government intends to [illegible] object not only by the methods adopted in past years [illegible] the league of nations [illegible] agreements [illegible] international [illegible] standing and regulating of armaments but by any other means that may be available.

So interested has the government been in pushing the cause of peace that it allowed the country's defenses to remain at a low level while other nations built theirs up, officials said, but the new [illegible] expansion policy will remedy that. As MacDonald himself stated:

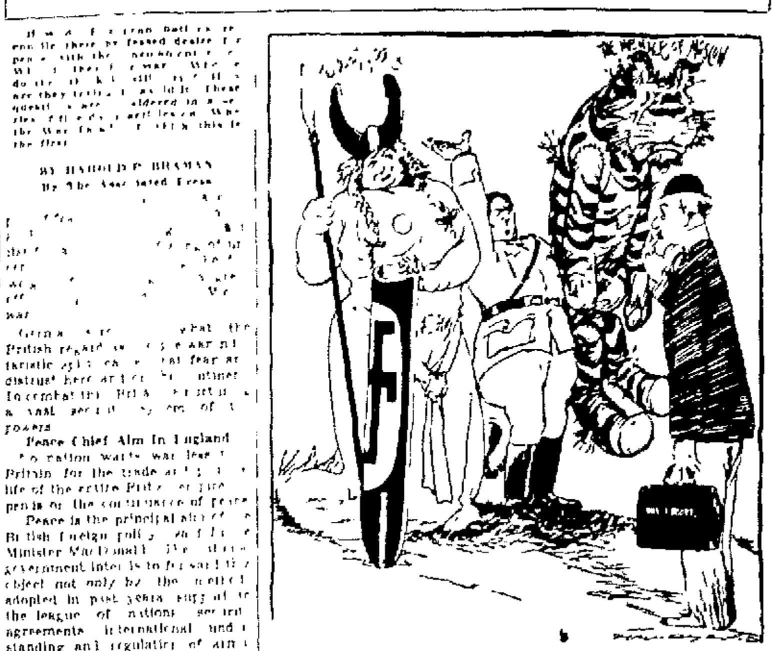
Notwithstanding confidence in the ultimate triumph of peaceful methods in the present troubled state of the world the government realizes that armaments cannot be dispensed with. They are required to preserve peace, to maintain security and to deter aggression.

Cross Fingers On Hitler

Another war could no more be localized than was the incident of the assassination of an Austrian archduke which brought about the World war, the British officials said.

The tactics of the German government are held by spokesmen here to be the only possible policy of a regime created and nurtured on aggressive propaganda.

Such a policy, they say, breeds suspicion abroad to an extent



Adolf Hitler's argument that a rearmed Germany is a bulwark against the western spread of communism in Europe is ridiculed in this cartoon by Tom Dyson in the London Daily Herald. The dialog accompanying the cartoon ran: "Choose—the Lady or the Tiger—which?" "Well, if you don't mind, Mr. Hitler, I think I somehow sort of prefer the tiger, like."

that other nations can accept [illegible] of Germany's leaders only with their fingers crossed. The [illegible] that the necessities of [illegible] propaganda may at any time [illegible] after Adolf Hitler's professions of his peaceful motives.

If Germany can be brought into a security system it would be a great step toward future peace, but with Germany outside and Europe dividing into armed camps war could easily come, officials admitted.

Aggressive War Ruled Out

Britain so far has signed up for one mutual assistance plan to guarantee the integrity of other nations outside of the provisions for peace which membership in the league of nations entails, and that is the Locarno treaty. It would, however, if a signatory to the continental security system, bring [illegible] altered [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] the requirements of such a plan.

A war of aggression on Britain's part is absolutely ruled out. Only Britain's [illegible] of the integrity of the empire could cause the country to fight outside of mutual assistance requirements, the spokesmen said.

5,000 TURN OUT FOR FIRST 1935 CIRCUS

Russell Bros. Show Draws Good Crowd; Leave for Mansfield Today.

A [illegible] [illegible] people yesterday saw [illegible] performances presented by [illegible] Bros. circus. Although the weather cut the attendance at [illegible] afternoon show, [illegible] crowd jammed the big top at night. It was the first circus of the season.

The performance last night was under way at 8 o'clock, [illegible] [illegible] time for a peek at the menagerie [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] Features of the menagerie are two lion cubs in the cage with ma and pa lion and a [illegible] less than two weeks old.

The main show opened with the traditional grand spectacle, after which Bee Merrill, Irene Ledgett and Grace Pruitt led off with a swinging ladder act. Following was an excellent [illegible] by Alfred Conner in a back [illegible] slide on a rope from the top of the tent and Violetta Conner in a [illegible] slide. Another feature in the opening moment of the show was Fran Watkins' leaping grey hounds.

Throughout the show, Har LaPearl and his battery of clowns entertained with familiar antics, one of the features being LaPearl's long shoe dance.

Upside Down White, the human top, was a good act, with White performing a number of difficult stunts.

An act that went big with the crowd was Frank B. Lewis and his horses. The act closes with two of the horses riderless doing a snappy dance the length of the track. Another novelty was an elephant dancing and playing his own musical accompaniment on a harmonica.

The featured novelty act of the show is Captain Dalbeanie, who skips rope, bumps up stairs and takes a [illegible] jump to the ground while straddling a large wagon wheel.

The star act was held for the close, the Five Fearless Flyers, an aerial troupe. The turn features Bobby Fisher, who fishes up a number of difficult numbers, closing with a double backward somersault to his catcher while blindfolded.

The Russell caravan pulled out early this morning for Mansfield where they show today.—C. H. M.

AGENT ADVOCATES NEW NARCOTIC LAW

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, O., May 14—State legislation to obviate the necessity of persons charged with narcotic law violations remaining in jail a long time before trial was advocated here by Lexy Ford, U. A General Motors Value

PONTIAC'S brakes are big, powerful 12-inch hydraulics . . . able to stop this big, full-weight car in many feet less than legal requirements . . . built to bring you to a halt with the same uncanny speed and smoothness as the Pontiac engine accelerates. And that's only half the story. Pontiac brakes are constructed to perform in this efficient manner all the time. The rear brakes are triple-sealed which means that rain, mud, slush, or a car wash has no effect at all on their quick, sure grip. Only Pontiac has brakes that are triple-sealed. Only Pontiac is called the most beautiful thing on wheels. And these are only two of a score of reasons why you can't do better than the low-priced, high-quality Pontiac in 1935.

[illegible]ys U S Not S[illegible]lize on C[illegible]ics

[illegible] EITHER WAY

[illegible] Must Pro[illegible]ss in Fight Start

[illegible]ed Press [illegible] Sec[illegible] speech [illegible] dollar [illegible] that the [illegible] to [illegible] to [illegible] needed to [illegible] a principal question talked over today was the probable effect of the speech on the much-discussed re[illegible] of assurances as to the future of the dollar. In New York financial community some bankers and economists said the speech would [illegible] restore confidence while others said they saw little meaning in it.

No Stabilization Yet

What, if any, future moves the speech portends was not made known. All indications from administration sources have been that stabilization was a topic for some time in the future rather than the immediate present. Morgenthau's speech was taken as a sign that the United States does not intend to act singly for international stabilization.

"The world should know," he said last night, "that when it is ready to seek foreign exchange stabilization Washington will not be an obstacle. Our position was that of an innocent bystander who suffered untold loss in a fight that we did not start and from which we could not escape.

"Why should we be singled out and admonished that the moral duty to restore order is primarily ours? Before we make any commitments we must be sure that we will not lose what we have just regained.

Willing To Cooperate

"We are not unwilling to stabilize. However, if the great trading nations elect to continue under the present absence of rules we are no longer at a disadvantage. We have revalued our currency no more than was necessary and we can go either way. Our hands are untied."

"So far from engaging in a competitive devaluation race with other nations," he said at another point, "we hold out to them a currency of such steadiness that the normal tendency may very well be for the rest of the world to move gradually toward practical exchange stabilization. If that can be achieved the final step should come easily and almost of its own accord. Unless somebody rocks the boat that would be the natural course."

Another theme running through the secretary's speech was his contention that the Roosevelt monetary policies saved the United States from disaster. He struck at the Hoover administration on the ground that it stubbornly refused to take action when gold left the United States in alarming amounts in 19[illegible].

Will Not Remain Fixed

He indicated the government in the absence of international action would decline to declare that the present gold content of the dollar shall remain fixed. For instance, only yesterday Prof. Edwin W. Kemmerer, Princeton university economist, told a senate banking subcommittee:

If the President would make a declaration that there is going to be no further reduction of the gold content of the dollar, if congress would fix the value of the dollar at 59 cents, if congress would say that all influences of the government would be used to keep the gold standard, if the government practices economy and sets up a balanced budget, you would see such a revival of confidence as we have never seen before.

and Bellefontaine avenues. "We'll [illegible] the motorcycle to traffic [illegible] and [illegible] the whole [illegible] with it. We'll be able to break up speeding and enforce other traffic laws."

Council President T. J. Frericks said council last year realized the police department lacked equipment to cope with traffic problems, but that this year the situation has become more serious, making it imperative that some action be taken to safeguard motorists and pedestrians from drivers who have been disregarding traffic laws.

OK Garbage Plan

Apparently content with the decision of the city board of control that the garbage and rubbish collection department should be retained by the city instead of turned over to a private company under a lease, council instructed its franchise and ordinance committee to meet with Service Director Mercer and prepare specifications for an advertisement for bids to continue operation of the department as in the past.

The bids will offer the city hog farm on the Agosta pike for rent and offer the sale of the city's garbage to bidders. The city's contract with the Terminal Service Co. of Cincinnati, which has been purchasing the city's garbage and feeding it to hogs on the hog farm, will expire July 1.

The control board yesterday rejected this company's bid to take over the entire garbage and rubbish collection department for five years and pay the city 1 per cent of its receipts. The board in its decision announced its belief the city should not dispose of a utility service such as the garbage department and further stated it regarded the bid as too low.

The board presented to council last night a resolution authorizing it to advertise for bids for rent of the hog farm and sale of the garbage. Council, after authorizing its franchise and ordinance committee to study specifications for the advertisement with the service director, tentatively arranged to act on the resolution at a special meeting Monday night.

Properties Transferred

Council transferred two residential properties to the commercial zone. One contains five lots on the south side of East Farming street between Ballentine avenue and Park street where Main Bros. plan construction of a truck transfer station. This transfer was made by a vote of six to two, Miss Barbara Bingham and J. F. Sexton voting against it. Fifteen owners of real estate near the property had filed a protest against the transfer. The other property placed in the commercial zone is located on the east side of North Main street just inside the city limits where Frank Schroeder plans to open a grocery.

Issuance of notes totaling $3,323.25 in anticipation of a bond issue to purchase supplies and parts for the city sewage treatment works was authorized. The articles to be purchased, said by city officials to be required for proper operation and maintenance of the plant, and the approximate cost of each follow: half-ton truck $600, repair concrete of pumping station well $450, 32 sidewalk doors $4[illegible]0, power mower $440, repair two sewage pumps $3[illegible]0, floor and other repairs on screen building $2[illegible], repair electric power circuits $1[illegible]0, replace three floodlights and purchase of two new lights $13[illegible], paint $100, sluice gate part $190, influent sewer repair $4[illegible], hose $50.

Other Actions

Council also:

Authorized Service Director C. R. Mercer to pay $33[illegible]2 to the C. & O. railroad for removal of interurban rails from the West Center street crossing of the company's tracks.

Appropriated $1[illegible]0 to pay the city's share of the cost of the FERA sewer survey.

Authorized the C. D. & M. Electric Co. to move the first street light north of Columbia street on the west side of Olney avenue one pole north, the second light east of Vernon Heights boulevard on Mt. Vernon avenue one pole east. Lacking funds to purchase new lights, council made these changes to increase the usefulness of lights now in use, councilmen said.

Voted supplemental appropriations of $[illegible]57 for hospital fuel and light, $250 for hospital insurance, repairs and incidental expenses, and $[illegible].47 for city truck insurance.

Re[illegible]ed a petition signed by 113 persons for a traffic light at Charles and Center streets [illegible] to the police committee.

Conciliation Moves Coupled With Increased Hostility as Duce Mobilizes

By The Associated Press

ROME, May 14—Italy may have 950,000 troops mobilized by Friday it was indicated today as her relations with Ethiopia wavered between conciliation and increased belligerency.

A government spokesman announcing that members of the class of 1912 had received mobilization orders referred to Ethiopia's evident attitude of hostility.

He added that while Italy is prepared to name conciliators to attempt to promote a peaceful settlement of the East African dispute under the arbitration treaty of 1928 she would not do so until assurance of like intention had been received from Emperor Haile Selassie.

It was learned British pressure to force conciliation and prevent the issue from embarrassing the League of Nations council was far from pleasing to Premier Mussolini but that he finally acceded to the conciliation proposals when France backed them.

The British were said to have made it clear that every possible move would be made to avert an open clash at Geneva or any action in Africa which might lead to hostilities.

The class of 1912 is the fourth to be called in recent months. Whether the mobilization notices mean actual concentration of men or merely steps to prepare the reservists for any contingency will not be known until an official communique is issued.

Reports from Ankara that Ethiopia might seek Turkey's support in the event of hostilities with Italy elicited the comment that Italy would resent any such alliance.

COAL FREIGHT RATES MAY BE INCREASED

Utility Commission Head Expects Advance.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., May 1[illegible]—F. J. Hopple, chairman of the Ohio public utilities commission, said today the commission might order increased freight rates on intrastate coal shipments.

Unless unexpected developments arise, Hopple said he expected the state commission to order the higher rates. He made the statement while the commission and an interstate commerce commission examiner were hearing witnesses on an application of railroads for the increased rates.

If ordered, the increase would amount to approximately 9 per cent and would bring Ohio intrastate rates in line with rates now being charged on interstate shipments of coal.

George K. Smith, president of the Sunday Creek Coal Co., said that if the railroads were permitted to collect the surcharges in question it was possible the coal operators of the state would turn away from the rails and ship coal by automobile truck to avoid the rates.

Order issued [illegible] tion.

Commissioners adjourned until tomorrow morning.

The setting up of two townships looks like a busy day's work but the record of the board [illegible] session shows that three townships, Washington, Pleasant and Richland were [illegible]

Taxes Needed Then Too

Early proof that government service must be accompanied by taxation to pay for it came in the report of the board's third meeting. The commissioners wanted all the tax money the law would let them have. The order for the first county real estate levy was worded as follows: "The county levy for the year of 1824 is to be the full extent of the law regulating county levies."

Someone had to be named to collect the money so the board appointed Reuben [illegible] as treasurer. He was to work on a commission basis, keeping three per cent of all the money he collected. Collecting, however, was more than a one-man job so the board provided for collectors who were to receive as commissions eight per cent of the money they collected.

For the purpose of collecting taxes the board divided the county into four districts, these districts giving the only information available in the early journal of the board as to the territory taken in by Marion county at that time. The districts were described and collectors named as follows: No. 1—Green Camp, Pleasant, Richland and Marvin townships in care of Henry Peters; No. 2—Scott, Washington, Claridon and Canaan townships in charge of James Lambert; No. 3—Big Island, Salt Rock, Centre and Grand Prairie townships in charge of Benjamin Hillman; No. 4—Bucyrus, Sandusky and Whetstone townships in charge of Charles Merriman.

Build Jail for $100

Then came the building program. In sharp contrast with the involved nature of a public building program today, the commissioners in one meeting authorized [illegible] build [illegible] for $100. The building was [illegible] stories high [illegible] square [illegible] together and was [illegible] in a handsome and [illegible] manner.

On [illegible] 1824 the commissioners [illegible] $50 toward a fund to be obtained by public subscription [illegible] in construction of a court house and meeting house. The next [illegible] was contracted on Jan 5, 1825 when Adam Uncapher agreed to build a log residence [illegible] for the jailer at a cost of [illegible]

Not until July [illegible] 1831 did the county undertake construction of a sizeable building. It was a court house 65 feet long and 45 feet wide, two stories high, made of brick and stone. Solomon Geller got the job of building it at his bid of $5[illegible]

$1 Bounty for Wolves

Keeping the wolves away from the door was more than a figure of speech when Marion county government was in its infancy. On June 9, 1825 the commissioners ordered that any person who shall kill a wolf or wolves within the county of Marion within six months of that date should receive $1 for each wolf. The offer was renewed from time to time in later years.

Incidentally it was at the "wolf" meeting on June 9 that the commissioners first levied a personal property tax in the county. The levy was 45 cents a head on horses, mares, mules and asses three years old and upwards. The charge on all neat cattle three years old and upward was 15 cents a head. William Crawford was the county's first collector of chattel and state taxes.

On March [illegible] 1826 the commissioners allowed the county auditor $50 for his work for the preceding 12 months.

Records of all meetings of the board of commissioners were written longhand until Oct. 4, 1904 when the first typewriter in the commissioners office was placed in use. Mrs. V. Perle Craig, now clerk of the county board of health, was the first commissioners' clerk and the first to use a typewriter. Previously the county auditor had served as commissioners' clerk, records show.

If the hemorrhage is on the right side of the brain, the left half of the body becomes paralyzed. This is explained by the crossing of the nerve fibers in the base of the skull. The paralysis may [illegible] the upper half [illegible] sides are paralyzed because of excessive bleeding from the rupture of a large vessel.

I am often asked whether the effects of apoplexy are lasting. It all depends. It is difficult to say because cases differ, depending upon what part of the brain the hemorrhage takes place and the amount of blood which enters the tissues. When the bleeding is limited, the clot is usually absorbed and complete recovery follows. Under such favorable circumstances the paralysis is slight and gradually disappears.

Severe hemorrhage [illegible] prolonged [illegible] and marked paralysis. These cases are more difficult to relieve and the outlook is less favorable. Permanent paralysis, more or less severe, is likely to occur and the victim, if he recovers from the acute attack, becomes a chronic invalid. Unfortunately, too, there is always the danger of another attack.

High blood pressure with hardening of the arteries and kidney and heart disease are the most common causes of apoplexy or stroke. Neglect of these disorders may lead to brain hemorrhage. I speak of this danger because most cases of apoplexy could have been prevented if necessary precautions had been taken.

Windup.

Apparently the Ohio legislature is going to get its affairs in order for adjournment this week. Eclipsed by its position as a legislative attraction secondary to the national congress the assembly will make its exit from the regular session quietly.

The main job of the closing week is the general appropriations bill. By Thursday, it will be out of the way if everything goes well. As usual plans are being made to close the session [illegible] the time agreed upon for adjournment is reached until all other necessary business has been finished. Sine die adjournment is scheduled for May 23.

Included among the items of other necessary business are a school program, an appropriation for old age pensions and a number of minor bills of varying importance. Some of these measures are scheduled for a quiet smothering. Others, too tough to handle, probably will be sidestepped in the hope that something will turn up before they have to be faced again.

Legislative bodies rarely command admiration on the eve of adjournment. Then, more than other times they stand revealed as victims of their inherent weaknesses. The Ohio legislature, starting its final week of activity in the regular session, certainly is no exception.

Pioneers Under Paternalism.

The Alaskan pioneers, part of whom reached the Matanuska valley the end of last week, are going to get a great deal of attention. They are the material of one of the new deal's most interesting experiments.

They aren't pioneers at all, of course. Pioneering and paternalism don't go together. They are simply rural families transplanted at government expense in an environment which supposedly is ideal for their type.

The Matanuska valley is extraordinarily fertile. Its climate, though more rigorous than that in most parts of the United States, is said to be more favorable than the climate of the section in which the new settlers were living.

They will be provided with cabins and equipment. The valley will be under the supervision of a government official who happens to be a practical farmer. Everything necessary to livelihood except their own labor will be forthcoming from the government.

It is paternalism to the last degree. The government had the choice of providing relief or the expenses of an experiment in rehabilitation. It chose the latter. One wonders what pioneering in the 19th century would have been like under similar circumstances.

It is reported that when a company of the Alaskan settlers were preparing to start the journey to the west coast, one of the leaders complained the government had promised sleeping cars instead of the day coaches provided. With all due respect for the hardihood of the Alaskan settlers, might that be a sample of the pioneering spirit which may be expected in a country that has accepted paternalism almost without dissent?

Discovered.

The dime chain letters have given the country something to talk about and, to [illegible] with inquiring minds, something to think about. The letters have been evidence of a [illegible] clutching elsewhere visible [illegible] the Townsend plan [illegible] the wealth [illegible] of Franklin D. [illegible] he was running for the presidency [illegible] 1932.

[illegible] long [illegible] climax [illegible] the [illegible] weren't going to last very long. Nearly everyone has received a letter and a great many have taken their chance in the sweepstakes by [illegible].

Nearly everyone but not everyone. For years writers and speakers have been trying to arrive at a satisfactory definition of the forgotten man [illegible] of Mr. Roosevelt's presidential campaign. Be it hereby recorded that the forgotten man has been discovered. He is the fellow who didn't receive a chain letter. Forgotten? Why the poor fellow must never have been remembered.

Race Against Time.

[illegible] Roosevelt [illegible] a prolonged [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] damaging [illegible] because [illegible] the subject [illegible] what to make of [illegible] doesn't [illegible] will vote [illegible] extension and let the senate [illegible].

Why is it [illegible] almost comic race against time to prevent confusion? Apparently [illegible] which played too long for time before submitting the recovery act to the supreme court for review. Had the court's opinion been available some time in April there would have been plenty of time to prepare for continuation of the recovery act. Stalling was good emergency strategy, but it is having a bad effect now that the emergency is history.

Just a Guess.

Huey Long's political star has risen and now is sinking in regions where he has no direct influence. It's just a guess but one guess is as good as another when estimating the potential power of a politician like Sen. Long.

Two things handicap him in a state like Ohio, for instance. One is his own character, which has no fundamental appeal to persons whose environment and political heritage enable them to discern the difference between opportunism and sound leadership.

The other is sectionalism. Sen. Long represents a type of southern politician which never was attractive to northerners. To be sure, he is distinctive, but he is not unique. He merely has had more success than other southern tub thumpers who tried to become as powerful as he is.

Sen. Long may be able to widen his sphere of influence. When he went to Iowa recently to address the Farmers' Holiday association he made a great hit. He boasted afterward he could organize Iowa more easily than he organized Louisiana. Desperation and ruralism are two of demagoguery's best friends.

But as a national leader he has no chance. His radio appeal is fading, as indicated by decreases in his "fan mail." Whereas he was able at one time to compete with Fr. Coughlin for attention, he now is a poor second. In the senate, where he stalked and howled unmolested at one time, he now is finding antagonists. Last Friday, Sen. Tydings of Maryland threatened him with physical violence for making derogatory remarks against President Roosevelt.

Believing Sen. Long is on the downgrade politically will not make it so. He has been pronounced politically dead many times by his enemies. The scope of this guess is not so wide, however. In his section he is still a hero apparently. But he has missed the mark in other sections, where he needed to be a hero to become the political power he obviously aspired to become.

At What Price?

Ohio, which supposedly is interested in saving money, probably won't be interested in a plan which would eliminate 65 out of the present 88 counties and save taxpayers between $8,000,000 and $20,000,000 a year. The reason is obvious.

The plan would entail the disappearance of 65 counties. It would mean the elimination of hundreds of county jobs. It would destroy political units which existed before the existing generation was born. Just try to do it.

Yes, it's not hard to believe a substantial saving could be made by accepting such a plan. The point is, are Ohioans as interested in saving money as they are in saving the familiar form of things? Every time county reorganization proposals are defeated, every time a yelp is emitted when reorganization is suggested the answer must be interpreted as "No." A logical system of local government will be only a remote possibility as long as the present attitude toward reorganization exists.

They were talking of names that somehow achieve unconscious dignity. Mrs. Atherton, for instance. Incidentally she used to be called Gertrude. Three names almost invariably have a corn starch air. Such as Howard Chandler Christy and William Rhinelander Stewart. Few persons have fitted a name so well as Maurice Barrymore. And there is a rare rhythm about Richard Harding Davis and hope, swing to Edward King Gaylord, the Oklahoma Ogden Stewart.

Irene Hayes is a red-head from a platform stop in Kansas who launched her commercial career selling posies in a cranny of a New York sky-scraper. Her assets were a small bench of cheaply priced flowers, spunk and a smile. Today she has a well-staffed establishment on an exclusive Park avenue corner with shiney go-wagons shaped like tulips, flower boxes and sprays of violets delivering wares. All through the depression she has prospered. I note this because I pass her place often, crossing town. And I have wondered if this has something to do with her success. Early or late whenever I glance through the street window I never fail to see her. And she is always busy.

Miss Victoria is well to do now and sings in the 'alls only when she needs something extra. She was contemporaneous with Eva Tanguay.

The proprietor of the Club Gaucho on Sullivan street thought up right out of his own head the idea of putting his caped doorman on a horse. Thus when taxis pull in at the curb he gallops up, dismounts and opens the door with a sweeping "Buenos Noches!" A difficulty is that when uptown slummers feel a mood for Sullivan street, they wouldn't know if the doorman were afoot, horseback or riding a high bicycle.—(Copyright, 1935, McNaught Syndicate.)

Glancing Backward

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Thursday, May 14, 1925.

J. M. Davidson who had served as common pleas court and criminal bailiff for nine years, was reappointed for another year by Judge Charles L. Justice.

An investigation showed that although many Marion women were smoking cigarets the practice had not become common enough here to remove feminine timidity about buying at a cigar store or any other place where "fags" were sold. One cigar counter proprietor said "I sell 15 or 20 packages of cigarets a week to women smokers. They buy most all brands but the plain cigaret seems more popular than the fancy kind."

Miss Abbey Rockefeller, daughter of John D. Rockefeller Jr. and heiress to probably the largest family fortune in the world, was married to David Merriweather Milton, a young New York lawyer, at the Rockefeller mansion in New York City.

Workers in the Y. M. C. A. fund campaign reported that approximately one-third of the $19,775 budget had been subscribed on the first day of the campaign.

Mrs. James W. McMurray was reelected regent of the Captain William Hendricks chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, at a meeting held at the home of Mrs. Ray R. King.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Friday, May 14, 1915.

President Wilson's note to the German government regarding sinking of the Lusitania by a German submarine torpedo demanded that the submarine warfare against peaceful commerce in British waters and killing of neutral citizens be brought to a stop. The final paragraph of the note read: "The imperial government of Germany will not expect the government of the United States to omit any word or any act necessary to the performance of the sacred duty of maintaining the rights of the United States and its citizens and guaranteeing its free exercise and egress." The document was not couched in the usual diplomatic language. An immediate satisfactory answer from the German foreign office was asked.

In the lineup for the opening game were [illegible] McDonough, second base; Wetzel, third base; Thoma, center field; Bonin, right field; [illegible] first base; Price, left field; Judge, short stop; Bresmeyer, catcher; Orndorf, Hoffman, Leak, or Hart, pitcher.

Behind The News In

Washington And Wall Street

BY PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, May 14. Several [illegible] of executive orders and statements have been issued about the new organization which is going to spend the $4,000,000,000 of relief money, but these cast little light on it. Everyone connected with this greatest of all governmental ventures has had a rather hazy private idea about who was to be top man among the new dictators.

It was originally announced that ex-Co-ordinator Frank Walker was the man. This was amended later to indicate that the President himself was to be the guiding genius. Finally word has come that the newly-organized board meeting with the President is to run the outfit. Positions in that set-up have been publicly awarded to Messrs. Ickes, Hopkins, Admiral Peoples and others, but these appointments have only beclouded speculation as to what the real influence of each was supposed to be.

These clouds have begun to evaporate in the private conferences which are being held. You can begin to see what may be expected. The following thumb-nail outline does not jibe with what the government press agents have been saying, and is a fair summation of prospects.

Walker

The "big boss" title given Walker appears to be an exaggeration. His real task apparently is to act as a polite buffer against all the governors, mayors, politicians and others clamoring for money for their home projects. He is to keep these people from annoying the President, Ickes and Hopkins.

His office is merely a reception room where applicants can cool their heels. After he receives their applications he refers them to various quasi-independent bureaus operated by Hopkins, Ickes, et al. The applications go through a mill of examinations and are finally reported to the general board meeting, at which President Roosevelt presides.

Apparently Walker cannot approve or disapprove of anything important. His duties therefore will be largely secretarial and coordinative rather than executive.

Hopkins and Ickes

The man who will do the bulk of the spending is Hopkins. His eager personality will operate the major portion of the show behind the skirts of Messrs. Roosevelt and Walker. The President will make all the big decisions at first, but he will do so on recommendations. Eventually, the major burden will undoubtedly shift to Hopkins' shoulders because the President cannot spare the time required. Admiral Peoples is in a way to be a sort of assistant to Hopkins. Ickes will only do the allotting of what is left of the PWA.

Phase of Relief

Boiled down, what the new relief regime appears to be is this:

A reorganization of old relief agencies, with the same men, Hopkins, Ickes and Peoples, in control of the machinery but under changed conditions, where they will be administrators instead of dictators.

Fight

The foreign trade conflict between Messrs. Hull and Peek is not yet over, but soon may be.

The Peek report which was given out at the White House a week ago seemed to be bringing the issue to a [illegible] if not a conclusion. The fact that the President gave out the report caused insiders to feel at first that he approved it. This conclusion seems to have been hasty. Apparently Mr. Roosevelt gave it out after a glance at Mr. Peek's summary, but has since received advices from Mr. Hull's friends. And they are going around whispering charges that Peek distorted commerce department trade figures in order to discredit Hull's foreign trade policies.

As for Mr. Hull, his close associates have noticed that he now gets [illegible] every time the name of Peek is mentioned [illegible]

Special Session

Congressional [illegible] have been talking privately about a plan to adjourn soon and have a special session in November. This kind of talk generally arises at this time of the year. The work has been heavy. The job ahead is going to be tedious and stressful. Mr. Roosevelt will probably veto the idea. He has made no plans for the summer beyond an indefinite promise to visit the San Diego exposition. It has not been announced, but he expected to make this trip in July. He cannot delay it.

Frittering

The senate has lately been getting nowhere more rapidly than usual. It has spent most of its recent weeks in considering the anti-lynching bill, the Bankhead farm tenant bill and the Copeland pure food bill, without getting to a vote on any of them. Days were spent debating the measures, yet they are now right back where they started. Only two big bills have been passed in four months—the relief bill and the bonus. This is something of a record, even for this most deliberative of all deliberative bodies.

BY JAMES McMULLIN

NEW YORK, May 14 — The age of miracles isn't over. Railroad coordinator Joe Eastman and President J. J. Pelley of the Association of American Railways spoke from the same platform the other day (at the Savings Bank convention) and agreed with each other. Eastman actually patted the association on the back and Pelley failed to recommend that Eastman be fired.

This love feast was the first fruit of a new policy on the part of the railroads recently predicted here. From now on they will try earnestly to coordinate with the coordinator instead of making faces at him. Insiders say that—as a result—they at last have some hope of getting constructive help from congress.

Both Eastman and the association want the present law amended to permit the railroads to fire people where they find they can economize by combining facilities. Naturally railway labor is opposed. Favorable action by congress hinges largely on whether the roads will agree to pay the dismissal wage Eastman proposes. That's a tough concession to ask of managements—but the dope is that they will be rewarded if they make it.

Yell

New York conservatives are badly scared by the prospects for the Wagner labor bill. A few weeks ago they regarded it as a remote menace. Now they feel its breath hot on their necks.

They get scant consolation from Roosevelt's refusal to commit himself. Certain signs point alarmingly to his fondness for the measure. Most significant was the action of the Democratic steering committee in allotting the bill a definite place on the senate calendar. That steering committee works closely with the White House and observers are confident Senator Robinson would not have tolerated such action if he had not been sure it would meet with White House approval.

Big industry is hastily mobilizing its defenses. The death threat to company unions contained in the bill is more alarming than a group of collective bargaining clauses like Section 7-A. If the measure gets to the floor of the senate you will hear a yell from industry which will make the Chamber of Commerce protest on NRA sound like a muted whisper.

Epidemic

European money is coming into the New York stock market in increasing volume. Foreign sharps believe the recent rise in American security prices marks the beginning of worldwide inflation. They figure that all price levels are on the way up but that ours will start first and go farther because we have a much broader base for expansion than any [illegible].

[illegible] the more [illegible] will be helped along by currency devaluation abroad. Speculative interests are draining capital from Holland to Switzerland daily and making it progressively harder for their government to stick to gold.

A Dutch crisis looks very close. Dutch exports have declined shockingly since the first of the year. In addition, the Dutch government is faced by a 13,000,000 guilder deficit in the budget. Premier Colijn will try to meet it with drastic deflationary economies. These measures are sure to be intensely unpopular.

There's a strong chance they will provide the spark for a political and monetary explosion.

Rough

Premier Flandin of France is having his troubles too. French revenues are steadily declining, the budget problem goes from bad to worse and the pinch of deflation is getting more and more painful to French industry. Insiders understand the main reason Flandin has kept his job this long is the taut international situation. The opposition doesn't dare risk throwing him out and precipitating internal unrest with the Hitler menace so vivid.

A well-informed French newspaper editor—who recently visited New York—privately prophesies that Flandin will not last out the summer. He doesn't pretend to know what will happen then—but he suspects the party may get rough.

Peace

Danger of an imminent European war is fading. Informed New Yorkers learn that Hitler's advisers have warned him against starting anything. German supplies of raw material and exchange are too inadequate for war purposes. Hitler is said to realize he had better quit flirting with fire for the present. Other European governments know this—so the tension is somewhat eased and the chances for peace are correspondingly better.

Difference

It wasn't so long ago that hot oil was pouring out of East Texas at the rate of 50,000 barrels a day and the oil industry was panicky at the prospect that its price structure would collapse completely.

Now the hot oil flow is thinned to trickle and consumption is up. Result: A probable increase of crude oil prices in the near future with a jump in gasoline to follow. This will be nice for the oil companies but not so pleasant for consumers. A few months sometimes make a lot of difference.

Sidelights

Joe Kennedy will have a lot more to say about the allocation of work relief projects than most people suspect.... Every roll served at a recent dinner of the National Economy League wore a label stating that 53 separate taxes had been paid on it.... Radio corporation officials got kindlier treatment at this year's stockholders' meeting than they have for six years—even David Sarnoff's salary increase to $75,000 drew only a minor squawk.

DUNCAN OF DUNCAN FALLS.

Nine miles below Zanesville on the Muskingum river is the village of Duncan Falls, named for a Virginia hunter and trapper of that name who came to the vicinity of the Indian village "Old Town" between 1774 and 1794. Duncan, finding that his traps were robbed with regularity, watched them closely. Every time he saw an Indian taking catches from his traps, he shot him.

The Indians, determined to kill Duncan, found that he did not use a canoe in crossing the river along his trap line, but at a rapids, called "the falls," leaped from rock to rock. The next time Duncan tried it, the Indians shot him from ambush. His body floated to a [illegible] known to this day as "Dead Man's Riffle."

Warning to politicians and others, don't stumble.

In California, Herman Ze[illegible] was putting eighteen tame [illegible] through their paces. He cracked the whip; they obeyed, jumping on stools, sitting up on their [illegible] legs. "Mind over matter" [illegible] beautifully demonstrated. [illegible] lions acknowledged their master.

Then, unfortunately, the [illegible] tamer, careless, stumbled over [illegible] stool, fell; instantly the lions were upon him, forgetting their fear of him. He had stumbled and fallen, that was enough.

They seemed, in slavery, to have forgotten how to use their powerful jaws and teeth. But they [illegible] his head, neck, face and [illegible]. Attendants rescued him alive, [illegible] he died.

The claws of a lion never [illegible] cause blood poisoning.

There are among us today [illegible] and off the radio, some [illegible] tamers, making the American people sit up and jump through hoops. Let them take care not to stumble.

Mystics and Scientists

Sir Francis Younghusband, British chairman of the "World Fellowship of Faiths," says the scientific day is over and "mystics" are to assume leadership of the world. In the opinion of some citizens, "mystics" have [illegible] considerable leadership for some years past.

Sir Francis says "mystic" persons experience directly the [illegible] sential drive of the universe. [illegible] may be, but science explains [illegible] drive as well as an ant ex[illegible] the mechanism of a locomotive, which is all you can expect. The mystic explains nothing. He [illegible] and imagines.

One real scientist can do more to control the world and benefit it, by increasing knowledge, than all the mystics in ten thousand years of self-approving mysticism.

For instance, the first of the great scientists, Archimedes, did so much in the way of discovery in physics, that practically nothing of importance was done for a thousand years after he died.

Pasteur, the Frenchman; Virchow and Koch, great German Jewish medical scientists; Ehrlich, and the long list of inventors, astronomers, chemists, geologists, engineers, have done more for human happiness than all the mystics since the beginning of time, in India and elsewhere.

Sir Francis says: "The first step in the development of the mystic is the sudden breaking down of barriers. There is a moment of exquisite torture, and the soul expands to include the whole universe."

To that commonplace Wall Street gentlemen reply, "That is what you think."

Love Not Free

Mr. Walgreen, in Chicago, [illegible] a professor in Chicago un[illegible] told Mr. Walgreen's niece [illegible] "believed in free love" for himself. Mr. Walgreen withdrew his [illegible] from Chicago university. [illegible] teachings are reprehensible [illegible] gretable. But whoever tries "free love" will find that there is nothing "free" about it. In the end, it costs more in disillusionment, disappointment and heartache than old-fashioned respectability, however dull that may seem to the professor.

Japan and Siam

Somebody said Japan and Siam are coming close together. [illegible] saying that a robin and an earthworm are coming together. [illegible] the earthworm, says "No." [illegible] "anxious Europe" that [illegible] not "swinging intentionally [illegible] Tokyo's orbit"; she is only [illegible] most favored nation."

If the robin, Japan, wants to swallow the worm, Siam, and Siam is willing, this country would [illegible] no objection.

Japan could cut a ship canal through territory belonging to Siam that would make [illegible] British far eastern fortress at Singapore useless as [illegible] Japanese shipping. But [illegible] Great Britain's affair. This country is content to have Japan [illegible] all of Asia if she can [illegible] gest it. We simply demand [illegible] pect to enjoy complete [illegible] our own possessions.

Do [illegible] I [illegible] [illegible] was [illegible] caught.

[illegible] already [illegible] [illegible]

I thought I'd [illegible] that you were [illegible]

"Not a bit." [illegible] she [illegible] ed.

"D'you think [illegible] out and snatched a bite of lunch together? That's what I really came for. I want [illegible] you."

"I'd love to."

"Good. Come on, then. You don't want to [illegible]"

"No, but I [illegible] leave a message for [illegible]."

"All right. I'll wait."

As Alison [illegible] the door she added: "I [illegible] back [illegible] Daphne."

"Daphne?"

He had [illegible] so white was looking at her so queer that Alison wondered what she could have [illegible] all.

"Yes, Daphne [illegible] Miss [illegible] the [illegible] Do you know her?"

"[illegible] No. I don't [illegible]" He turned [illegible] her quick [illegible] "Look here, I'll go down and get [illegible]"

He [illegible] and Alison [illegible] going down on [illegible] she [illegible] wondered [illegible] Daphne. But why [illegible] think she was something [illegible] Daphne [illegible] what.

But if she expected Guy to explain she was disappointed. His [illegible] remark when she joined him [illegible] quite a different [illegible]

"I say, I hadn't thought. D'you mind lunching in a cheap place?"

"Not a bit. I'd like it."

"That's all right, then." He seemed considerably relieved. "You see, I'm not exactly rolling at present."

"Aren't people building houses?" Alison's mind darted to her father. Could he help? He had masses of acquaintances [illegible] wealthy [illegible] If he tried he could find someone who wanted to build a home.

But Guy seemed slightly put out by the suggestion.

"Houses? No. It's not that—not exactly. I've had a bit of a setback [illegible] that's all. To put it plainly, I dropped a lot and had to close down and I've only just started work again, so at the moment I've got to watch the exchequer." He smiled suddenly at her. "I shouldn't think that you know what that meant do you?"

"Being short of money? I suppose I don't," Alison admitted. "Father pays [illegible] everything for me."

"Judging by his energy I imagine that should work well."

"Very well."

They laughed together, a lot of laughter over a very small joke. But the day was fine, a crisp November day with frosty wind to set the blood tingling, a day that made one glad to be alive, young and driving out to lunch with someone, a day when everything was fine.

Guy's anxious "Sure you don't mind this?" was quite unnecessary, for Alison found the cheap place [illegible] Regent Street, down a small [illegible] de turning and the [illegible] was [illegible] [illegible] at a window with a [illegible] [illegible] edged with the [illegible] [illegible] she sees in France.

R[illegible] of seven [illegible] [illegible] was full of [illegible] [illegible] had a [illegible] each table cut off from [illegible] and half hidden by tall palms [illegible] for the most part [illegible] dressed and speaking in a babel of tongues.

A [illegible] looking waiter waved them to a table at the far end and drew a menu out of his pocket [illegible] it carefully on his trousers before offering it to the girl.

"Borsht? Oh, lovely! What a Krasha?" Alison was enchanted. Robert's idea of a restaurant was strictly limited to the large and fashionable hotels which are on P[illegible] card.

"Lord knows. Shall we try them [illegible] Or this. I can't even pronounce it. You know, this is exciting."

It seemed to catch her mood. "You like it?"

"I adore it! Oh, oh, they're cooking it all over there. Grills always fascinate me. I'd love to cook [illegible] [illegible] cook at home gets huffy if I go into the kitchen. I think that must be the best part of being poor—one can do what one likes oneself."

"I wonder if you'd really like it."

"I know I should." Alison was in earnest. "You see, we've lived [illegible] [illegible] hotels and places until [illegible] my time at school—and when I'm home father likes to entertain his friends and wants me to be with him. I've never really been allowed to have any fun of that sort. But it's always been my dream to own a very little house and run it all myself."

"A very little house," he repeated it slowly, his eyes on her face.

"Yes, and a large cooking apron," laughed Alison.

"You'd look rather good," he agreed.

"Oh, I'd adore it."

"Perhaps as a game for a bit." He spoke brusquely, almost roughly.

"No, I don't mean that." Alison was serious. "I mean really. You see, I'm rather a dull sort of a person. I'm not so frightfully good at games and though I'm crazy about music I can't play or anything. I'm not a big highbrow. If I try to read serious books I generally go to sleep over them. In fact I'm not much good at anything except just doing things with my hands. At school, the last one, my finishing school, we had to do domestic courses and I loved that. I liked scrubbing. It sounds silly, but I did."

The waiter had brought two plates of food and set them down, but both of them had no more than tasted a mouthful. Guy was leaning forward looking at her with a queer smile.

"At a guess I should say you'd money of your own and were always going to have money?"

"Yes?" Alison could not see the point.

"That's why."

"Why I like scrubbing?" She was frankly incredulous.

"Yes. You don't understand yourself, that's all. People like the things they haven't got to do. No one'd play Soccer if they'd got to play by law. They'd try and get out of it. You haven't got to scrub, you don't think you ever will have to scrub, so you like it. That's all."

She said rebelliously, "I don't think you're being fair."

He pushed away the strange curry like mixture in front of him and lit a cigaret out of a packet. Asked: "My dear child, what do you know about it? I don't suppose you've ever seen real poverty. I could show you—" he broke off suddenly and covered a momentary confusion by striking a match.

But Alison had caught the half sentence.

"You were going to say—?"

"Nothing that mattered."

"Yes. It did matter." She too pushed away the strange and nauseating dish, planted both elbows on [illegible] she and [illegible] [illegible] age [illegible] who was [illegible]

Married Comrades

BY ADELE GARRISON

Katherine Tells How Strange Man Asked About Mary

"QUEER, ISN'T IT?" Katherine interpolated, "how one's intuitions work sometimes? There was really no reason for me to think that the man who was so palpably disguised should be planning to speak to me, but I was convinced that he meant me and no other when he started across the street in my direction."

"I was fortunate that your wits were working so rapidly," I commented. "I should not like that man to know where we are going."

"Indeed no," Katherine rejoined earnestly. "I am going to talk to you about that in a minute. And you can wager the last doughnut in the jar that I was glad I had entrusted my telegraphing of more to Mrs. Gibson when he came up and spoke to me.

"Even if he were a piper with he could hardly deduce that I [illegible] am Mrs. Gibson, a doctor's wife [illegible] tonight—I [illegible] that would have anything to do with us."

"Indeed no," I again murmured, and she plunged into her story.

"The man was most deferential in an exaggerated foreign fashion," she said, "and his accent was [illegible] too stilted a [illegible] as if he had practiced [illegible] and his gestures before a mirror. He swept off his hat and bowed [illegible] and said as [illegible] as I can remember:

"'A thousand pardons, madame, but are you a member of the household of Mrs. [illegible] and of Dame Graham [illegible] miles from here?'

"I did not match his politeness with any suavity whatever. If he really is a furriner, as Jerry called him, he will not carry back with him any high idea of American courtesy if he judges the rest of the natives by me.

"I suppose the truth is that I was unreasonably panic stricken and disguised it by stiffness. I was conscious that my back felt like a ramrod as I looked steadily at him and said in my chilliest manner:

"'Yes, I live at Mrs. Graham's. If I had added, "And what business may that be of yours?" I could not have expressed my meaning more clearly.

"But he was not to be rebuffed. He beamed at me as if I had just cordially welcomed him into the family circle.

"'And I am so gratified that I

OHIO SET TO START ON ELECTRIFICATION

county relief officials again will submit the projects for final approval, he explained.

However, before final approval is given, Stillman added, cooperatives or farmer organizations who are sponsoring the project, must sign contracts with power companies.

Preliminary plans call for purchasing power, wherever possible, from the 110 municipally-owned plants in Ohio, which are capable, Lincoln said, of generating 50 per cent in excess of their present loads.

19 Years To Repay

The costs of the projects would be borne by the federal government, which would be repaid by the users of electricity over a 19-year period.

Federal census figures show that only 45,000, or 19 per cent of Ohio's farm homes are equipped with electricity, as compared with 62 per cent of the homes in towns and villages and 92 per cent in cities.

A recommendation that 3,040 miles of power lines be constructed in 680 rural townships of 78 of Ohio's 88 counties at a cost of $31,648,000 was made in a report on an FERA survey announced last February.

PATROLMAN SHOOTS RAVENNA YOUTH

Boy Tells of Fight With Parents; Girl Deserted.

By The Associated Press

STEUBENVILLE, O., May 14—Patrolman Ernest Underwood shot and possibly fatally wounded Wendell Smith, Ravenna youth today. From George Slater, his 18-year-old companion, Underwood drew a story of revolt against parental discipline, desertion of a 17-year-old high school girl companion, and a wild ride in the early morning in a stolen taxicab with the driver as their prisoner.

Smith was taken to a hospital with a bullet wound in his left arm and the possibility of a punctured lung.

The youths went to Alliance last night for a date with a 17-year-old girl with whom they visited a beer establishment. After leaving the place, they wrecked Smith's father's automobile.

Smith called his father and became involved in an argument which ended when the youth told his father he was going away.

FARM GROUP ATTACKS NEW CITY MILK CODE

ducers and dairy plant operators," Dr. Gruber said.

The principal objection on the part of dairy farmers is that they feel more money will be needed for equipment, which the price they are now receiving for milk does not warrant, the milk inspector explained, and the main objection of the dairy plants is based upon the provision for grading milk.

Expenditure Denied

Dr. Gruber said a survey of dairy farms he made with Mr. Dotter revealed that about 90 per cent of the producers will be compelled to spend but little, if any, money in altering their equipment. The big change will be not in the equipment of the farms, but in the methods of handling the milk, he pointed out.

Dr. Gruber explained two changes in handling many dairy farmers will have to make. He said they have been in the habit of washing pails and utensils with soap and a cloth, tending to leave a soapy odor or flavor to the milk. The new code provides that the utensils be washed with scouring powder and brush, thus eliminating any odor.

He also pointed out that a great many producers strain the milk in the cow barn. The code compels the producer to confine the straining in the milk house.

These are the types of changes provided in the code and in complying, dairy farmers need not spend a cent, Dr. Gruber asserted. "The code does not seek to place a burden on the producer and dairyman, but to bring the methods of handling and distribution up to the high standards of sanitation provided by the United States public health service. The local code is modeled after the federal ordinance.

Plans To Meet Groups

As to an increase in the retail price of milk, Dr. Gruber said this has not resulted in other communities where the federal code has been adopted, and should not happen here. There is a possibility that grade A dairies will see fit to raise the price of grade A pasteurized milk slightly, he said, and the consumer who demands this highest grade may be compelled to accept the increase.

The milk inspector said he intends to meet with organizations such as the farmers' union at Pleasant, and with dairymen to explain more clearly the provisions of the new code so the present misunderstanding may be cleared up.

The code was adopted at a meeting of the city board of health early this month. The majority of the provisions will not take effect for one year. The delay is designed to give farmers and plants time to bring their methods and equipment up to the requirements of the code.

3,000 FARMERS WAIT TO HEAR ROOSEVELT

Wallace Cheered

[illegible] Wallace who was greeted with three minutes of cheering when he appeared. Wallace smiled and was obviously pleased.

This afternoon the farmers will go to the south grounds of the White House to hear the President. White House attaches were [illegible] to attach significance to the address Mr. Roosevelt has in mind.

With delegations still arriving by [illegible] special trains, the [illegible] farmers began crowding into Constitution hall more than an hour before the meeting opened. Several leaders of various state delegations rallied their friends around and the groups vied with each other in efforts to cheer loudest for the AAA.

Opening the convention, Robertson said: "It seems proper first of all to say that we are farmers from the cotton belt and the tobacco belt and the wheat belt and from the corn belt and that this trip is of our own planning.

Paying Own Way

"We left the plow handles to come here, and are paying our own way, and are not the pawns of high powered lobbyists.

"We have come to Washington because we have the right to come and speak for ourselves and for the great industry we represent, which right to observe is so freely exercised by other groups.

"Moreover, we came because we felt that we would be welcomed especially by those who are championing the cause of a square deal for the farmer as that cause is represented in the agricultural adjustment program.

"Every type of producer from tenant to extensive plantation owner is here. Owners of average sized farms and farmers of average production are in the majority. Those of us who are not paying our way out of our own pockets are having our expenses paid by our fellow farmers whom we personally represent."

Strikes at Talmadge

A grizzled and walrus moustached farmer from Georgia stood at the edge of the gallery shouting, "all you Georgia crackers come up this way. We got no governor but we're here anyhow."

The reference was to Gov. Talmadge of Georgia who has vigorously assailed the Roosevelt administration for its policies.

Senator Bilbo of Mississippi, was greeted with loud acclaim when he entered. For 30 minutes after the program opened, shouts of "Bilbo" "we want Bilbo," came from widely scattered parts of the hall. Cully A. Cobb, chief of the AAA cotton section, was on the platform with Bilbo.

BARBARA BECOMES DANISH COUNTESS

had consistently remained in seclusion.

Count Haugwitz-Reventlow, who has persistently denied he intended to marry the princess since his recent arrival from Europe and that he would come here to visit her despite increasing reports of their romance, arrived in Reno yesterday afternoon. He was reported to have been met at Verdi, Nev., west of here, by Thatcher.

A reliable source said the count planned to take Barbara back to Europe after their marriage.

Barbara's open appearance with Count Kurt last night was in sharp contrast to the elaborate precautions taken to avoid any public contacts when she went to the Washoe county courthouse early in the day to obtain her divorce.

Sheriff Ray Root and Police Chief John M. Kirkley of Reno were among the entourage which escorted her from Thatcher's automobile into the court building. She used the back stairs to reach the court room of District Judge Thomas F. Moran. She hurried out when it was all over only after a bailiff had cleared the upstairs hall of all persons.

What took place behind the barred courtroom doors during the brief hearing and what was contained in Princess Barbara's complaint remained undisclosed because she took advantage of one of the privileges extended by Nevada to divorce seekers by obtaining a private hearing.

DAVEY SILENT AFTER HOPKINS TAKES DARE

Federal Relief Leader To Speak in Cleveland; Fire Low in Old Dispute.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., May 14—Some of the fire appears to have gone out in the celebrated dispute between Governor Davey and Federal Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins.

Hopkins announced yesterday that he was coming into Ohio which Davey "dared" him to enter in March. Hopkins' announcement brought no comment from Davey.

Prosecutor Kenneth Kreider of Licking county said the warrant charging criminal libel which Davey filed against the relief administrator would be served, but Hopkins had nothing to say. He repeated that he would make the trip to speak to the Citizens' League in Cleveland.

"Come to Ohio if you dare and show that you are a man or turn and run like a coward and confess your contemptible character," Davey said when he filed the warrant.

Hopkins' charge, that investigators had found "evidence concerning corrupt political interference with relief," led Gov. Davey to file the warrant. Hopkins also used the word, "shakedown," and said he had "incontrovertible evidence" that the governor's campaign committee solicited funds from firms doing business with the relief administration to meet a campaign deficit.

John Lee, former hay buyer for the relief administration, has been indicted on the basis of the affidavits produced by federal investigators and sent to Prosecutor Donald J. Hoskins of Franklin county (Columbus) by Hopkins.

For several weeks the controversy between Washington and Columbus was carried on bitterly.

Prosecutor Kenneth Kreider said Cleveland police would serve the warrant on Hopkins, and James F. Gradl, clerk of the Newark municipal court, said it would be served personally. Kreider acted as one of Davey's attorneys when the warrant was obtained.

LEGION AUXILIARY CONFERENCE HELD

Marion Woman Named To Scholarship Committee at Mt. Vernon.

Mrs. L. M. Eikenbary was named a member of the Elizabeth Clark Scholarship committee at the annual spring conference held by the Sixth district, American Legion auxiliary, yesterday at Mt. Vernon. She will succeed Mrs. Mildred M. Williams, who was named treasurer of the fund to fill the vacancy made by the death of Mrs. Emma Kreppenheimer of Marion. A memorial service honored Mrs. Kreppenheimer, who served as the second president of the district group. Flowers were sent by the members to be planted at her grave.

Members of Dan C. Stone [illegible] No. 156, were hostesses for the day. The fall conference will be held at Newark. Speakers included William Herold of Warren, Ohio department Legion commander, Mrs. Blanche Thomas of Logan, department auxiliary president, Mrs. Marie Moore of Zanesville, department secretary.

Roll call responses were reports on the membership roster. Marion was reported as being a full quota unit. The organization has a membership of 11[illegible].

Attending the meeting were Mrs. L. M. Eikenbary, Mrs. [illegible] A. Mortimer, Mrs. M. V. [illegible], Mrs. Fred Miller and Mrs. J. C. Marks.

COURT NEWS

Hearing Date Set

Common Pleas Judge Hector S. Young has set May 21 as a time for officers, directors and shareholders of the Union Securities Co. of Marion to appear in court and show why the corporation should not be dissolved.

An entry fixing this date states the court has been informed that records of the company have been withheld from A. J. Berry, temporary receiver for the company.

Dissolution of the company and appointment of a receiver was sought by H. O. Rueger of Marion and two other stockholders.

Divorce Actions

Petitions filed—Mrs. Ruth Rogers Lares of Marion against Alphonse W. Lares; grounds, gross neglect and extreme cruelty; Mouser, Mouser & Wiant attorneys for Mrs. Lares. Nell Weirick of Marion against Mrs. Muriel Pierce Weirick; grounds, gross neglect and extreme cruelty; Mouser, Mouser & Wiant attorneys for Weirick.

Decree granted—Mrs. Ada McCarty of South State street from Amel McCarty of Urbana; grounds, gross neglect; Donithen & Michel attorneys for Mrs. McCarty.

Denies Liability

The Buckeye Union Casualty Co. has filed an answer in common pleas court in the suit of Mrs. Matilda L. Decker of Marion against Stephen Kelleds, admitting the company issued insurance on which Mrs. Decker based a damage suit, but denying the company is liable for the $3,000 judgment she obtained. The company was not notified of the accident as required by terms of the policy, it is stated in the answer. John E. Foster of Columbus and W. P. Moloney represent the casualty company.

Transfer Asked

Green Camp township trustees seek common pleas court authority to transfer $500 from the road and bridge fund to an account for poor relief. J. M. Wolfinger, C. W. Bricker and Sherm Imbody, trustees, are represented by Prosecuting Attorney Paul D. Michel.

Marriage Licenses

John Sheeders of Cincinnati and Addie Lawrence, waitress, of Marion; Eugene Martin, truck driver, of Oceola, and Viola Packer of 352 Avondale avenue; Sam Shuster, farmer of Delaware and Anna Gump of 631 May avenue.

PICKAWAY RELIEF CLIENTS ON MARCH

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., May 14—Approximately 200 Pickaway county relief clients were camped on the southern outskirts of Columbus today, preparatory to continuing what they called a "hunger march" to the offices of C. C. Stillman and Governor Davey.

They left Circleville late yesterday, the men walking and the women and children riding in three trucks, and had traveled the 20-odd miles by dusk.

Mose Butler, spokesman, said they planned to ask Stillman, federal relief administrator for Ohio, to assume control of relief in the county. Stillman withdrew last week when the county commissioners refused to accept Stillman's appointment of W. T. Utley of Cleveland as county director. The commissioners said they would administer relief themselves and Stillman gave them sanction.

Stillman said today he would be glad to receive the delegation. Governor Davey's office also indicated willingness to give them a hearing.

FAMILY DINNER

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Wargosky of five miles northwest of Cardington gave a family dinner Sunday in honor of Mrs. Wargosky's mother, Mrs. John G. Augenstein of north of Waldo. Present were Ed Augenstein, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Augenstein, Mrs. Albert Bohner, Mrs. Ambrose Bufford, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Niggles and family, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Henry, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Augenstein and family, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Faiscal and family, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kaelber and family of Cardington and Howard Niggles of Mansfield.

SENATE REFUSES TO INVESTIGATE FARLEY

Long Resolution Defeated 62 to 20 in Fight Over Work Contracts.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, May 14—The senate refused today to investigate Postmaster General Farley as proposed by Sen. Long, Democrat of Louisiana.

The vote against the investigation was 62 to 20.

The Long resolution was defeated after the Louisianan had introduced a new affidavit in his campaign against the postmaster general and Chairman McKellar of the postoffice committee had accused Long was "trying to destroy the character of a man who doesn't agree with him."

The Louisianan had charged Farley, who also is chairman of the Democratic national committee, with seven specific acts of alleged wrong doing including the use of his influence to change government contracts with private firms and of benefiting indirectly through public works jobs.

A majority of the senate postoffice committee had made an adverse report on the resolution [illegible] March [illegible] contending Long had based his accusations entirely on "hearsay and rumor" and had not presented a case warranting an inquiry.

A minority, composed of Rep. [illegible] Logan and the Progressive, Sen. LaFollette of Wisconsin, agreed that Long had failed to furnish sufficient evidence but favored the inquiry to "allay suspicion in the public mind."

PHILIPPINES FAVOR INDEPENDENCE PLAN

opposition was from Tomas Cabili of Mindanao island.

Cabili, who is from the sub-province of Lanao, was the lone constitutional convention member who failed to vote for approval of the charter when it was completed.

First Independence Vote

The plebiscite represented the first opportunity the mass of Filipinos have had in their decades of freedom to vote on whether they really want independence. The congressional act states that if a majority of the votes cast favors the constitution, that "shall be deemed an expression of the will of the people in favor of Philippine independence."

Women voted nationally in the plebiscite for the first time but it was impossible to estimate in advance of the returns how many would make use of the franchise granted in 1933 by the legislature. Some 200,000 Filipino women were eligible to vote in the plebiscite, for from 2,000,000 ballots were printed.

Leon Guinto, interior undersecretary, predicted the women's vote alone would overwhelm the Sakdalista opposition.

To Call for Election

The next step after the plebiscite is for the legislature within 30 days to canvass and certify the results to Gov. Gen. Frank Murphy. He is required by the independence act to call an election of officers for the commonwealth, to be held in from three to six months.

The Filipino leaders hope to have the election in September and be ready to start the new regime before the end of the year.

There will be a Filipino president instead of an American governor general, but an American high commissioner and the United States army and navy will remain on the scene until the arrival of complete independence.

Complete independence, promised by a long line of Presidents from McKinley to Roosevelt, is contemplated under the act after 10 years of the commonwealth regime, but there are many who believe the Filipinos will ask to remain longer under the protection of the United States.

Manuel Quezon, president of the Philippine senate and dominant political leader, is the outstanding candidate for president and hopes to be unopposed, but Gen. Emilio Aguinaldo, leader of the 1898-1900 insurrection, for weeks has been hinting that his hat would be in the ring.

CHURCH MEN'S CLUB SELECTS OFFICERS

E. L. Fennock was elected president of the Forest Lawn Men's club at a meeting last night at the Forest Lawn community house. James O'Dowd was elected vice president and H. E. Winters, secretary-treasurer.

William Retley entertained the club with a talk on airplanes and dirigibles. Carl Price played several cornet selections, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. E. L. Cleveland. Dinner was served.

Arrangements were made for a "family night" meeting on June 1[illegible].

LUMBER DEALERS WILL MEET HERE

Representatives from counties comprising district No. [illegible] of the Ohio Retail Lumber Dealers' association will meet tonight at Hotel Harding.

A dinner will precede the monthly business session. Representatives will be here from Marion, Crawford, Hardin, Delaware, Logan, Morrow, Wyandot and Union counties.

TALK ON "MOTHER" IS GIVEN AT LODGE

Grant E. Mouser Sr. talked on "Mother" at a meeting of [illegible] Lodge No. [illegible] I. O. O. F. last night. He emphasized the part mothers have taken in the careers of the great men of the country.

After the meeting members of [illegible] and a team of [illegible] played a game of dart baseball, the scouts winning 2-1.

15 MINERS INJURED IN LABOR RIOTING

By The Associated Press

ADD SENECA COUNTY TO OFFICIALS' GROUP

Commissioners' Association Takes New Member at Meeting Here.

Seneca county was added to the Central-Northwestern County Commissioners association at the second meeting of the group last night in Hotel Marion, and arrangements made to add Richland [illegible] to the association at the [illegible] meeting on the second Monday of July.

T. E. Cowgill of Delaware county, president of the association, presided at a roundtable discussion of road equipment and employes, tuberculosis care, old age pensions, county boards of health, crippled children and work of dog wardens.

Proposed legislation affecting county officials and county funds was discussed. County commissioners of Marion, Delaware, Union, Logan, Morrow, Hardin, Crawford, Wyandot and Seneca counties are members of the association.

GOD SHUT THE DOOR IS TOPIC OF SERMON

"In creation God desired fellowship with man, but man disappointed God by his disobedience," Envoy Frank Berry said in a revival sermon on "God Shut the Door," which he delivered at the Salvation Army revival service last night at the West Center street hall.

"God is a God of love, but He also is a God of justice," he said. "Disobedience to His law will bring punishment, for he will apprehend the law-breaker as does the state."

Tonight Envoy Berry will preach on "Son, Remember," and on Wednesday night on the subject, "Thou has left thy first love."

The Army band will play each night during the services, which start at 7:45.

TWO HELD FOR JURY IN WARREN HOLDUP

Mail Truck Driver Identifies Pair; Alibis Supported by Witnesses.

By The Associated Press

YOUNGSTOWN, O., May 14—George Sargent and Anthony [illegible], both of Akron, were bound over to the federal grand jury today under bond of $25,000 each, charged that they participated in the $[illegible] mail truck holdup in Warren, O., three weeks ago.

U. S. Commissioner John [illegible] bound the men over to the grand jury after a preliminary hearing on charges of robbing the United States mails.

Burt Villers, driver of the truck, identified the two men on the stand as the pair who [illegible] into his truck as he was [illegible] from the railroad station to the Warren postoffice with his load of mail.

Two other witnesses [illegible] Sargent as one of the robbers, several Akron witnesses [illegible] testified that the two men were in Akron on the afternoon of the robbery.

Theodore Firestone, [illegible] pawn broker said that Sargent claimed a pawned ring [illegible] shortly after noon on the day of the holdup.

Michael A. Finelli, [illegible] Summit county prosecutor, [illegible] said the two men were in his office for 45 minutes that [illegible] and that Sargent [illegible] to sell him the ring. Two waiters in an Akron restaurant [illegible] they saw the two men after [illegible] on the day of the robbery.

REVOLVER STOLEN FROM HOME HERE

Burglars last night entered the home of Clarence Stanley of [illegible] Herman street and stole a .3[illegible] caliber revolver from a bedroom. Entry to the residence was gained by breaking a glass out of the rear door. Nothing else was disturbed. Night Police Captain DeWees and Patrolman Smith, who investigated the burglary, said. Members of the family were away and discovered the theft when they returned home about 9 30 o'clock.

50 O W U ALUMNI TO ATTEND DINNER

Retired Dean Will Be Guest Speaker at Event

Fifty alumni are expected to attend the [illegible] meeting of the Marion [illegible] Association of Ohio Wesleyan university alumni Wednesday night at 6 30 at Hotel Harding.

William E [illegible], retired dean of the university, will be the guest speaker.

Dinner will be served in the [illegible] room following a short informal reception for Mr Smyser in the mezzanine. George Stafford, president of the Marion county alumni, will preside and will introduce the speaker.

Miss Clover Mae Klingel will play a group of violin selections.

A short business session will be conducted to elect officers for next year.

STANDARD OIL MEN DISCUSS BUSINESS

Representatives of the Standard Oil Co in the Marion division held a dinner and business meeting last night at Hotel Harding. Dealers were here from Union, Hardin, Crawford, Wyandot, Seneca, Delaware and Marion counties.

A discussion of current business problems followed the dinner. R [illegible] division manager, presided.
